

AGILITY (AGLT.KW)

- Agility (The Public Warehousing Company – PWC) has sent out a clarification regarding the statement that the company made yesterday.

“Correction: Agility Temporarily Suspended, not Debarred from New Business with US Government.

PWC would like to clarify erroneous information concerning its status as a US Government contractor. The Defense Logistics Agency (DLA) has temporarily suspended PWC from being awarded any new business until it determines that the company is presently responsible. The company has not been debarred from US government contracting, as no determination has been made by the government at this time, and will not be made until all the facts have been reviewed. The temporary suspension should not impact any current government work being performed by the company.”
